Asks Banks to Make Loans to Students

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon has appealed to banks and other lending institutions to go ahead with loans to college students despite a delay in Congress in acting on a measure to continue federal guarantees with a higher interest rate.

The President said Thursday he had been assured that Congress would pass the bill, permitting an interest increase from 7 to 10 per cent retroactive to August 15.

It is estimated that 920,000 students will borrow about $800 in the federally guaranteed loans.

In another area, presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler sought to allay fears that Nixon's new welfare program might reduce benefits to some of the nation's needy.

He said the new family assistance program would in no way diminish food stamp grants or other benefits that poor families now have.

"There is no intent at all," he declared, "to decrease the level of assistance."

Nixon also ordered an inter-agency review of the nation's income tax rates and fares, routes, traffic rights, competition and charter operations.

Temperatures in State Due to Be Mild

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Considerable cloudiness and mild temperatures with increasing shower activity is expected through Saturday, the U.S. Weather Bureau said today. A slight cooling trend is expected over the weekend.

Showers brought some slight relief to Arkansas Thursday but only at widely scattered localities.

As a result of increased cloudiness and scattered showers, temperatures Thursday afternoon were considerably lower in the northwestern part of the state and at least a little lower over other sections. The high was 96 at Texarkana.

Low tonight is expected to be mostly in the 60s. Overnight lows included 66 at Fayetteville, 67 at Jonesboro and Memphis, 69 at Harrison and Pine Bluff, 70 at El Dorado and Little Rock, 71 at Fort Smith and 77 at Texarkana.

A trace of rain was recorded at Harrison and El Dorado, .25 of an inch at Fayetteville and .01 at Little Rock during the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m. today.

Collins to Stand Trial for 1st Degree

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A handsome young college student has been ordered to trial on a first-degree murder charge in the strangulation death of a pretty Eastern Michigan University freshman.

The victim, 18-year-old Karen Sue Beilman, was the latest of seven young women killed in a series of sex slayings in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in the past two years.

The defendant, John Norman Collins, 22, is accused of murdering Miss Beilman last month and dumping her nude and battered body alongside a secluded road on the outskirts of Ann Arbor.

No charges have been filed in connection with the other six slayings.

Collins, a husky former high school football star, put his head in his hands briefly but otherwise showed no emotion Thursday when District Judge Edward Deake ruled there was reasonable cause to believe the defendant may have committed the murder.

Deake set Sept. 5 for Collins' arraignment on the charge in Openway County Circuit Court. The defendant's mother, Mrs. Loretta Collins, broke into sobs.

The prosecution, indicating it was not disclosing all of its evidence, called nine witnesses as it brought its case before Judge Deake.

One witness identified Collins as the man with whom Miss Beilman was last seen alive, on a motorcycle on a street in Ypsilanti, home of the Michigan University.

Gales and rains up to 10 inches were expected to batter Cuba from end to end. Getting the worst of the blow will be the world-famed crops of fine tobacco grown in the western end of the island.

But forecasters said sugar, Fidel Castro's main source of hard currency for world trade, also would be hard-hit. The big production is in Eastern Cuba.

As forecasters concentrated on tracking Camille, a new disturbance was rising far out in the Atlantic Ocean.

western border to support and supply field hospitals set up to receive wounded fleeing from Northern Ireland.

In Dublin itself, a crowd of several hundred people screamed as the Union Jack was ripped from the first-floor flagpole of the British Embassy. About 70 Dublin police guarding the embassy watched impassively as the crowd pounced on the flag and ripped it apart in a tug-of-war.

Barry Murphy, the 23-year-old dockworker who climbed from balcony to balcony to reach the flag, said he and others were going north "to help the fight for civil rights."

An embassy window was broken and another cracked by stone throwers.

Fighting between the police and Protestants on one side and Roman Catholics on the other ebbed as morning came. But hatred seethed between the Catholic minority and the Protestant majority, and Ulster's worst outbreak of violence in nearly 50 years appeared far from over.

The Royal Air Force flew 800 British Infantrymen from England to fill the gaps left by British troops called to action in Londonderry for the first time since World War I. Londonderry was calm but uneasy.

Another 600 men of the Royal Green Jackets were being recalled from leave and put on standby "because of the seriousness of the situation" in Ulster, the British Defense Ministry announced.

There were fears that the night of violence, in which at least 42 persons were treated for gunshot wounds, may add new fuel to the rioting throughout Ulster cities.

But the Ulster government was hesitant to call in additional British troops to Belfast—for it would indicate it could no longer control the situation with its own Royal Ulster Constabulary.

Opposition to the Ulster government spread to Irishmen in Britain. The Irish Immigrants Republican Organization called for a national one-day work stoppage of Irish sympathizers in London, Birmingham, Glasgow and other cities.

The Irish Civil Rights Solidarity Group said it was opening late? Can you prove it? Anyway, what ruffian in the office turned me in?" His aggressive traits might prove useful at a straw boss level, but I'm afraid he'll probably just turn out to be the next chairman of the union grievance committee.

"I had a hangover," Well, every office ought to be able to afford one honest man.

"Frankly, I took yesterday off because I'm so bored with my job I felt that if I showed up I'd probably commit hari-kari on your rug." Give him a better job, and six months to make good at it.

"I'm late because this pretty girl on the bus fainted, and I got so busy giving her mouth-to-mouth resuscitation that I forgot all about what time it was." Better be nice to this liar. I'll probably be working for him in another 10 years.

"Here I am a half hour late—because some jerk put his car in my parking space." Oh, oh, I hope he doesn't find out it's my car. I didn't think the boss was coming in today.

100,000 on Hand for a Pop Festival

BETHEL, N.Y. (AP) — More than 100,000 young people flowed into this tiny community in the heart of the Catskill Mountains Thursday night and today for a pop music festival.

Another 50,000 or more were expected for the opening of the three-day rock program later today.

New York state police said traffic was tied up for miles around Bethel, which is 95 miles north and west of New York City.

Six teen-agers from Torrington, Conn., were critically injured at about 3:30 a.m. when their small bus went off Route 202 in the Litchester County community of Yorktown and struck a pole. Yorktown police said the young people were headed for the festival.

Convention Prohibits Price-Fixing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Constitutional Convention voted Thursday to set aside as a statute a provision to prohibit price-fixing by the state.

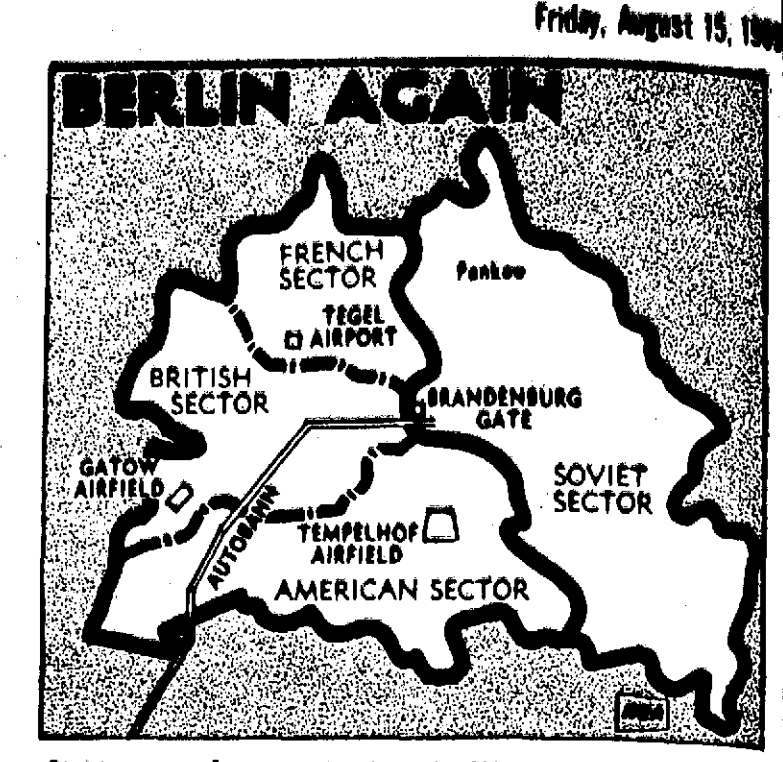

It would have the effect of repealing the state's controversial "fair trade" liquor law which sets mark-up prices for liquor at the wholesale and retail levels.

The price-fixing proposal was approved 57-23 following a 47-40 vote by the delegates to give it statutory authority.

James A. Ross Jr. of Monticello, sponsor of the amendment to make it statutory, said he didn't fear the General Assembly re-enacting the "fair trade" law because the convention had spotlighted it so that it would be politically difficult for the legislature to do so.

In other action Thursday, the convention began work on its second draft of a finance and taxation article.

The delegates approved language to provide that, for valorem tax purposes, the percentages of value at which property would be assessed would not have to exceed 20 per cent of the value for the first 10 years after approval of a new constitution.

Picking up a Soviet invitation, the Western allies are asking that Berlin again be put on the agenda for four-power consultations. The United States, Britain and France are acting following a statement by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko last month that Moscow is ready to discuss the city. The former German capital is still technically under four-power control, but the three Western sectors have long functioned as the self-governing city of West Berlin while the East German regime, located at Pankow, claims East Berlin as its capital.

Five Negroes Charged at Forrest City

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — Four Negro men and one Negro woman were charged by Forrest City police with assault with intent to kill and armed robbery as a result of an attack on a white Forrest City grocery store operator Thursday night.

Forrest City Police Chief Marvin Gunn identified one of the five as Eddie Tate of Memphis, a member of the Invaders, a black militant group.

Tate has been in Forrest City recently working in conjunction with the Committee for Peaceful Coexistence headed by the Reverend Cato Brooks.

Also arrested were Tate's wife, Peggy, and Johnny M. Harper, both identified as members of the Invaders, and Sylvester Robinson and Robert Lee Patterson, both of Forrest City.

Gunn said two men entered the grocery store about 9 p.m. Thursday and stabbed the store operator, William Epps, in the back and abdomen. Epps was alone at the time. The men cleaned out the cash register, taking about $55. Gunn said three other persons waited outside in a car.

The five were arrested attempting to reach Interstate 40 to get to Memphis. They are in the St. Francis County Jail. A hearing is set for Monday.

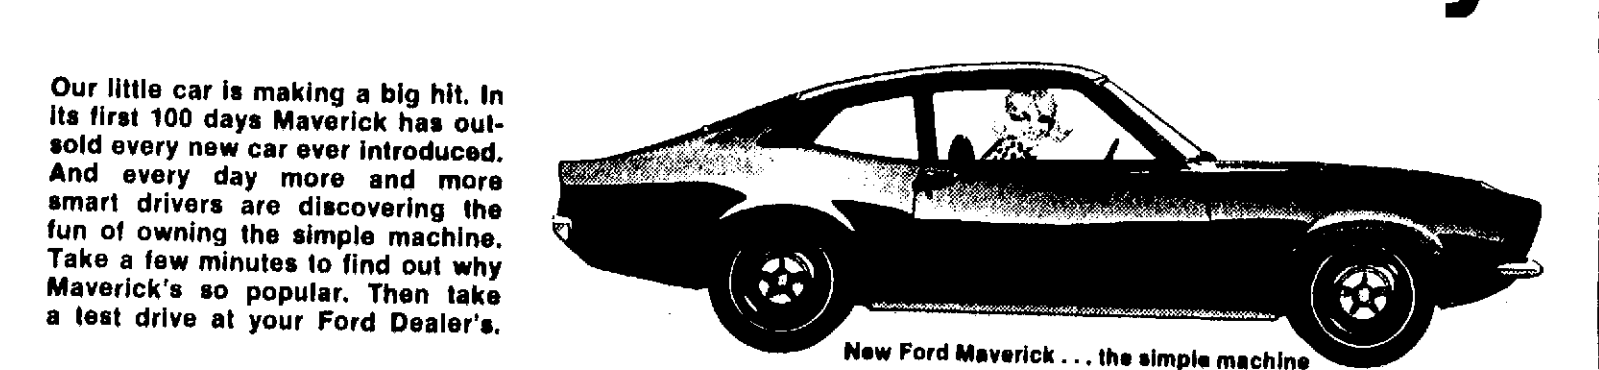

Epps is in a Forrest City hospital and reported in satisfactory condition.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 reasons why
Maverick is the fastest-selling new car in automotive history!

- Our little car is making a big hit. In its first 100 days Maverick has outsold every new car ever introduced. And every day more and more smart drivers are discovering the fun of owning the simple machine. Take a few minutes to find out why Maverick's so popular. Then take a test drive at your Ford Dealer's.
- 1. LOW PRICE. Maverick is the best seller of the '70s at 1960 prices. And you get your money's worth. A complete car all ready to drive home.
 - 2. LOW FUEL BILLS. In tests by professional drivers at our tracks, where we do our best to duplicate actual driving conditions, Maverick averaged 22.5 mpg. (Some Maverick owners report they get 25 mpg and better.)
 - 3. 105 HORSES. Maverick's high-spirited Six gives you nearly twice as much horsepower as the leading import's engine. You get fast acceleration, easy passing.
 - 4. PEOPLE-SIZED INTERIOR. Maverick pinches pennies, not people. Its front seat gives you nine inches more shoulder room than the leading import. Plus lots of leg room, hip room and head room.
 - 5. EASY HANDLING. Maverick can outmaneuver the leading economy import. It can U-turn in a tighter circle, nip around corners and slide into tight parking spaces with amazing agility.
 - 6. FEWER SERVICE CALLS. Maverick is actually easier and less expensive to maintain than an economy import. Maverick oil changes come only once every 6,000 miles and chassis lubrications once in 35,000 miles. The leading import recommends an oil change twice as often and a chassis lubrication six times as often. (Maverick gives you economy without inconvenience!)
 - 7. SIMPLE SERVICE AND REPAIRS. The Maverick Owner's Manual has 24 pages of instructions for routine maintenance jobs you can do yourself, if you wish. You can change spark plugs, replace fuel filter, adjust ignition timing, and more. Even a smashed grille can be replaced in as little as 13 minutes.
 - 8. WIDE-OPEN TRUNK SPACE. No more cramming in luggage just because you have a small car. Maverick gives you 10.4 cubic feet of luggage space—nearly twice as much as the leading import. (With Maverick, you can take it with you.)
 - 9. SOLID DURABILITY. Maverick's unitized body construction makes it light, strong and durable. (And Maverick's 3-speed transmission is tough enough to handle twice as much horsepower as the engine turns out.) (Maverick may be little, but you don't have to treat it like a kid.)
 - 10. BUILT-IN SAFETY. Unlike most economy imports, Maverick's tread is wider than the car is high. That means stability—mighty important when the road is wet or the wind is strong.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. JOE HENLEY CORNELIUS

A candlelight ceremony Friday at Brown Springs united Miss Brenda Ann Davidson and Joe Henley Cornelius.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Davidson of Donaldson, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cornelius Sr. of Prescott.

Rev. Dan Sanford performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with two seven-branch candelabra, flanked by baskets of white gladioli. Nuptial music was provided by Becky Jo Copeland of Sparkman, pianist, and Pat Matthews also of Sparkman, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length A-line of Chantilly lace, set off with a train which fell from a bow at the shoulders. Her shoulder-length veil was attached to a crown of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white wedding flowers centered with yellow rose buds.

Matron of Honor, Mrs. Bob Davidson of Malvern, wore an empire-cut street-length dress of yellow, which featured a train falling from the back. She carried yellow carnations.

Vernie B. Meador Jr. of Prescott and Freddie Joe Goodwin were groomsmen. Ushers were Sammy Cornelius of Hope and Bob Davidson of Malvern.

For travel, the bride wore a brown linen dress with beige accessories. Her flowers were yellow rose buds.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita High School and Henderson State College. She is a teacher at Sparkman High School. The bridegroom graduated from Prescott High School and is employed at the Lone Star Ammunition Plant in Texarkana.

Transplanted Heart Not Working Well

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The transplanted heart of Philip Blalberg, who was readmitted to Groote Schuur Hospital Thursday when his condition deteriorated, is working at only a third of its proper pressure, sources close to the hospital said today.

Doctors also have found that the kidneys of the world's longest heart transplant survivor are not functioning properly, these informants said.

Blalberg, 60, has had his new heart for 591 days.

Tests seeking the cause of his relapse were understood to be continuing, but hospital authorities said there will be no bulletin on him today. A bulletin Thursday said only that he had been readmitted "for investigation following a deterioration in his condition."

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us! it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

POPULATION EXPLOSION: WILL IT MEAN EXTINCTION?

Dear Helen: My husband and I have been married six years, and are still trying to justify having a baby. We want one of our own, but feel it would be wiser to adopt. If everyone would stop having babies for just five years—that is, every responsible couple—and after that, limit themselves to no more than two per family—with no repeats on second or third marriages—we might be saved.

As it is now, if we continue reproducing as we have in the past, in less than 300 years there will be 11,000 people for every square mile of the earth's surface! This is a scientific estimate based on population growth up to the present. We're liable to stamp ourselves to death!

Yet certain groups continue to fight birth control, especially among the unmarried—who need it most. If unwanted babies were not produced, we happily married people might not feel guilty planning families.—STILL BARREN

Dear S.B.: I have a counter plan for you: Have your quota of two babies, and then fight actively for more and better birth control clinics, worldwide. In many such clinics nowadays, contraceptive information is given to anyone who asks for it, from age 16 up, whether she is married or not—and in certain instances even this age limitation is lifted.—H.

Dear Helen: If I were built like certain busty movie stars, I guess I wouldn't mind, but my size 42 is not even D-cup—it's mug! I actually need a harness to keep myself under control, and my bra straps dig into my shoulders until they are all raw and permanently grooved.

Guerilla War Taught in NY Suburb

SCARSDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Thirteen high school students in this wealthy suburb 25 miles north of New York City are being taught guerrilla warfare tactics for credit this summer, and the local school superintendent says it's a "legitimate course."

During a "war game" Thursday, in which students engaged in a mock battle with unloaded bb guns, water pistols, and shaving cream bombs, Scarsdale police were alerted and paid a visit. They left when assured that the weapons were not real.

Stephen Kling, the instructor, said, "Revolution and guerrilla warfare are happening all over the world and I think the students in Scarsdale should know about it."

He said he taught the course without any political slant. The 12 boys and one girl each will receive one-half credit toward graduation.

Franklin G. Myers, head of the summer school, said, "We have lots of unorthodox courses in our curriculum. Why, we have courses in black-white relations, science fiction and mythology."

As part of their training, the students have made dry runs on the local police, fire and power stations and have developed a strategy for taking over the village of Scarsdale. "We found the village would be easy to sabotage," Kling said.

School Supt. Donald G. Emery said he had "no specific information on the course, but Mr. Kling is teaching a legitimate course in our summer school program."

In the training exercise Thursday, guerrillas won over a number of "peasants"—junior high school students.

"It was easy," said one of the guerrillas. "The government forces weren't taking care of their people."

Among Poorest of Lands

More than half the population of Greece, one of the world's poorest lands, consists of peasant farmers; less than 10 per cent is engaged in industry; and only three towns have a population of more than 100,000, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Palmer Quits Tour Due to Hip Ailment

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer withdrew today from the PGA championship and said he would not return to the tournament until he gets rid of a chronic hip ailment.

He indicated he might remain out of golf competition for the rest of this season and try a comeback next year.

However, many observers believe that this may mark the end of a career that made him the all-time leading money winner with earnings of more than a million dollars, and the most popular figure in the game.

The 39-year-old Palmer, credited with building golf into its present multimillion dollar business, shot an 11-over-par 82 in the first round of the PGA Thursday—the worst round he's ever shot as a pro.

Is Pro Ball Strangling Sports World?

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The first kickoff in the first pro football game will be like somebody giving the boot to a hanging man's stool. Some folks in the land have simply had it up to here with the incessant, insistent, interminable football season.

The thing is, it never really ends. The Jets' upset victory in the Super Bowl was a fitting, climactic end to the 1968 season. Or was it the 1968-69 season, since the game was played in January?

Actually, the game was not the end. Still to be played was the AFL All-Star and Pro Bowl games. The season staggered on like a bewildered prize-fighter.

"All good things," said some forgotten prophet, "must come to an end." If they don't, they become distasteful. Even the poor French would have got sick and satiated had they taken Marie Antoinette's advice and consumed nothing but cake.

Physical combat continued on into the summer with NFL football highlight television films coming in the height and heat of the baseball, golf, tennis, swimming, outdoor track, surfing, horse racing, auto racing and boogie seasons.

And those films don't just come onto the screen with diversionary intent. The drama of the narrator's voice, the thump of background music and the histrionic and monumental script makes a linebacker's blitz sound like he is single-handedly invading the Normandy beachhead; a flanker leaps high for a pass and you'd think he is taking off for the Sea of Tranquility; and a quarterback has more on his mind than a mother of ten preparing for a picnic.

There is something vaguely insulting about those films. But maybe they mirror the whole perspective of pro football, which is growing as if possessed of an overactive pituitary gland.

An incident involving the alleged retirement of one man whose greatest attributes are a strong arm and soft heart captured the curiosity of a nation. It went so far as to pique the interest of a Harris Poll, and much to nobody's surprise, people under 30 thought Joe Namath was justified in "doing his own thing"—some of them actually use such phrases, still—and the majority of over-30 gaffers felt that Pete Rozelle, if not exactly hubba-hubba, was acting strangely in ordering the Jet quarterback to give up either his restaurant or pro football.

The Namath thing dragged on for weeks.

What the Harris Poll did not seek out was, "How many people are just lagged out from wondering whether Pete Rozelle is ruining pro football by his imperiousness."

DOWN EAST FOR LANDLOCKS

Al's red Chevy rolled out of Portland toward Sebago Lake and I settled back in my seat wondering what it would be — grey ghost, black ghost, or perhaps a stonefly. I looked back to see that everything was in order with the Garcia Ambassador — the 19-foot fiberglass Mako riding smoothly on its carrier. Soon we would be backing up to the lake's edge and plunging the boat into the cold blue water which held Maine's number one game fish — the landlocked salmon.

Ice-out was three weeks ago and the lake's surface temperature had risen just past 45 degrees. Conditions were still good for trolling streamers, and we hoped mightily that Sebago's spotted silver-pink salmon would cooperate.

We had chosen a shallow bank launching site, and when the boat swung off on a taut anchor line, we parked the car and carrier in a clearing near the road and got at our tackle. We settled on extra capacity Delta 5 reels for our No. 8 floating line and 9-foot Conolon Blue 2639 bass bug action rods. We put aboard the tackle and Al turned over the 105-horsepower Chrysler. The Sebago stretches out over 28,000 acres and this was just the swift transportation needed to move on during the day in search of the salmon.

It was early morning as the trim Mako knifed slowly up lake in the deepening mist. The rays of the sun were in the tops of the surrounding fir and spruce trees, but below on the forest floor forms were still slip-covered in blacks and grays.

We had let out grey ghost to troll, and almost immediately Al's was snatched up by an early riser.

He was a real caverter, leaping and splashing in a circle around our boat. In the quiet, the splashes as he fell back to water set up a commotion. Finally, Al had him in the boat, and he ran to four pounds.

That was all the success we would have with grey ghosts, and soon we yanked them and substituted gaudier black ghosts. I began wishing my rod back and forth for more action as this second ghost vanished in rippling water. It was the right combination — the line sang as it sped from the reel and the rod's spine clattered against the gunwale where I sat.

He ran out and leaped — the sun dazzling his dripping body — as I lowered the rod tip just in time to keep him from busting too taut a line. He flopped back in the water and circled, and when he cut across his own circle I hauled back and took in line. He ran again and then he was coming out and I dipped the rod tip as before. Another spurt and leap and I had him exhausted on his side in the water lapping at the boat.

We decided to run up one of the larger feeder streamers and try our luck at the first pools below the rapids. About a mile up, we secured the boat and struggled into waders. There, within earshot of fast water, we dug into some of the best deep pool action we'd ever encountered. We released many and kept four good size salmon.

As we got ready to leave, a new sound reached us from the rapids. And when from a safe distance we investigated, we spied a stately black bear snatching salmon from the quick waters with primeval fishing tackle — his lightning quick paw.

"Let's get going," said Al, "the rest of the fishing club might show up."

Phils Beat Braves, Yanks Nip Chisox

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports writer
Phil Niekro's knuckleball was dancing all over the place—and that's always a good sign for Atlanta.

But rarely was it dancing into catcher Bob Didier's glove—and that's always a bad sign for Atlanta.

Niekro had a little too much on his bread and butter pitch Thursday night and it led to four wild pitches, two passed balls by Didier and a 6-0 victory for Philadelphia over the Braves.

Niekro had the knuckler to blame but what was Jim Maloney's excuse? Maloney, who isn't noted for the flatterball, uncorked three wild pitches and Montreal went on to beat Cincinnati 6-3.

In the only other major league game played Thursday, the New York Yankees nipped the Chicago White Sox 3-2 with the winning run scoring, predictably, on a passed ball.

Most of Niekro's troubles came in a nightmarish fifth inning against the Phillies. Philadelphia had pushed across a run without a hit in the second with Niekro's wild pitchoff throw at first base setting it up and his wild pitch allowing it to score.

In the fifth, singles by Woodie Fryman, Cookie Rojas and Deron Johnson, two wild pitches by Niekro and two passed balls by Didier brought in three more runs.

Fryman pitched a five-hitter and rapped his first major league homer to even his record at 9-9. Rich Allen also homered for the Phils.

Two of Maloney's wild pitches helped Montreal to a run in the first, but the Expos were trailing 3-1 when they rallied for three in the sixth. Ron Brand's two-out, two-run double was the big blow after Ty Cline had knocked in a run with a pinch single.

Three Expo errors had helped the Reds to a pair of runs in the fifth. It was Montreal's third victory in four games against Cincinnati and trimmed the Reds' National League West lead to 2½ games over idle Houston which took over second place.

Jake Gibbs drove in the Yankees' first two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly but Chicago and New York were tied in the ninth when Horace Clarke tagged a two-out triple. Then a passed ball by Ed Herrmann allowed Clarke to score the deciding run.

The Yankees used three pitchers to stem a White Sox rally in the last of the ninth with Steve Hamilton and Lindy McDaniel coming out of the bullpen to get the last two outs.

Some 60 Players Are Expected for Grid Practice, 56 1st Day

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports writer

Though the sun still is putting up a hard fight, football started yesterday for 56 Hope Bobcats with the beginning of preseason two-a-day workouts. Actually, Head Coach Ronnie Higgins is expecting about 60 boys out by today or tomorrow, since some of the players are out of town on vacation.

The practices will be without pads until next Wednesday, which is the first official day that Arkansas high schoolers can suit out in full pads.

Coach Higgins termed yesterday's practices as "spirited, though most of the boys were out of shape." He also pointed out that the cool weather was fortunate for the first day.

Workouts begin at 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. throughout most of the two-a-day period, which will end about a week before the season opener on September 5 at Ashdown.

The entire coaching staff personnel for the Hope Junior and Senior Highs is assisting Coach Higgins, including Willie Tate, Gaylord Solomon, Johnny McMurry, George Straughter, and John Ross.

Head Bobkitten Coach Gaylord Solomon announced that the first junior high squad meeting will be at 1:00 p.m. on Monday afternoon at Hammons Stadium and any 8th or 9th grade boys who are interested may come out even though they may not have been previously contacted.

ELIGIBLE FEES COSTLY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The five richest races for 3-year-old trotters — the Hambletonian, Colonial, Kentucky Futurity, Yonkers Trot and Dexter Cup — have a value in excess of $500,000.

Owners must pay $9,990 in fees to keep a horse eligible for all five races.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Unlike baseball or football or basketball, golf does not rely on people for its life's blood. Persons, m a y b e. But not people.

In a game dominated by numbers and statistics—Fudge Baffle won the $210,000 Classic Open today by sinking a 16½-foot chip shot on No. 18 with a 7-iron for a 72-hole total of 288—the Professional Golfers' Association finesses its public.

Computerized information will tell how far Jack Nicklaus drives the ball and how many fairways Arnie hit, but the attendance—the adoring gallery—is generally kissed off in a roundhouse estimate that usually is exaggerated.

The PGA keeps figures on everything except the gate. "We've never bothered with that as a statistic," says an official. "It's not part of our contract. We keep stats on PGA Championship attendance, but that's it."

On the tour, you see, prize money is not contingent on the size of the crowd. The purse must be established before PGA sanction is provided. A sponsoring group provides this. The paying customer gives only the sponsor a refund on his investment.

With no attendance figures available, then, there is no way to refute a certain New York press agent's recent claim that only "five or six tour tournaments really cut the mustard at the gate."

Pro golf, still riding the television boom of the early 1960s that made Palmer and Nicklaus Sunday afternoon heroes in nearly every country club in the nation, certainly is not in financial difficulty. The total tour purse jumped from $5 million to $8 million in this year. Financially, the PGA is as sound as Lee Trevino's bank account. The question concerning golf's current popularity, however, seems a valid issue, especially since the latest available Nielsen ratings show the sport's television audience going down.

A drop of 10 per cent since 1966 (below bowling and the American Football League), however, still doesn't concern the golfers.

"It amazes me that it has gone on this long," said Bud Harvey, a PGA club pro division official. "Maybe the tour is wearing out its welcome on the tube."

If it is, fellows like PGA television representative Marty Carmichael are not too concerned. Golf still draws the "blue chip" advertisers—the airline people, telephone companies and business machines—businesses with expensive price tags.

"We figure the guy who watches golf is a different character," Carmichael says. "He is a businessman, a guy who'll have a few bucks more. We feel you get that out of the audience with golf."

"And despite the high cost of covering 36 holes of a golf tournament—between $100,000 and $200,000—the high price of advertising time has produced no shortage in buyers."

"Your audience might have a lower head count," says Carmichael, "but it will contain the right market for the advertiser's product. We don't sell any chewing gum or soap."

Every year, five or six tournaments fold for various reasons, says former PGA tournament administrator Billie Booe. At the same time, however, at least 25 other cities seek to begin new tournaments.

"Most of the applications are from Chamber of Commerce people who want to do something for their area," said Booe. "They consider golf a good medium for this."

"I can't believe that only five or six tournaments are making money. In fact, I don't know who's not making money. From what I've seen, the galleries are getting bigger—not enormous, but bigger. I'd say only five or six were losing money."

Gross Held While Board Decides Parole

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Billy Frank Gross, 32, filed a petition in U. S. District Court Thursday for a writ of habeas corpus.

Gross is being held in the Pulaski County Jail pending a decision by the state Board of Pardons and Paroles on whether it made an error in granting Gross a parole from the state prison on July 5.

Gross was serving a 21-year sentence on conviction of second-degree murder in the 1963 slaying of Frank Adam Birch, 69, of Hattiesville.

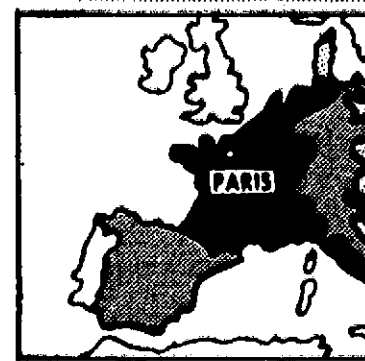

In his petition, Gross contended that he had served enough time to be eligible for parole.

Circuit Court Judge Henry B. Means of Malvern stipulated in sentencing Gross following a second trial in 1968 that he should serve a minimum of one-third of his 21-year sentence.

As issue is whether Gross should be credited with time he served between 1963 and 1968 following his conviction of first-degree murder in the case, the state Supreme Court overturned the first verdict.

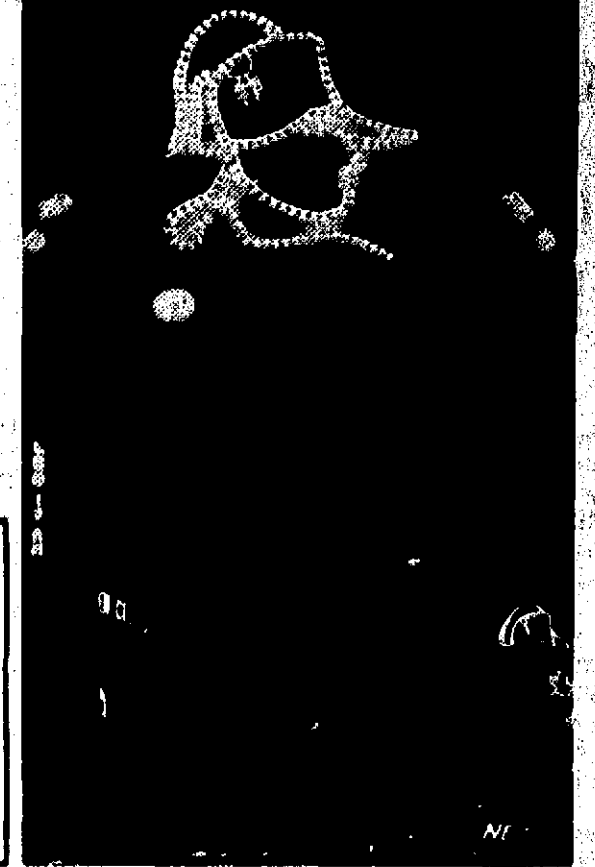

The board said last week it would request a statement from Means on the effective day of Gross' term.

NAPOLEON

born 200 years ago on Corsica, still ranks first among leaders in the hearts of most of his countrymen. The impact of "The Little Corporal" on France and many other nations has lasted far longer than the brief empire he created. He established the strong central administration that keeps France functioning despite wars and political unrest; unified laws in the Code Napoleon, one of the two great legal systems of the western world, and spread the French Revolution's concepts of freedom and equality throughout Europe. Right, lights twinkle in celebration in the streets of Ajaccio, city of his birth. Below, the French Empire in Europe at the height of Napoleon's power.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY—

Let us never forget that every station in life is necessary; that each deserves our respect; not the station itself, but the worthy fulfillment of its duties does honor to man.

Gaskin Asks for 1-Year Reduction

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — J. Ernie Gaskin of Little Rock asked U. S. District Court Thursday to reduce to one year his 13-year sentence on conviction of 13 counts of selling unregistered securities.

Gaskin, an unsuccessful candidate for secretary of state in 1966, was convicted of 14 counts in 1967 but the state Supreme Court ordered a new trial. The second conviction, on 13 counts, came last March.

Gaskin, who was fined $61,000, said a reduction in the sentence would make him eligible for parole. He contends that the sentence violates the double jeopardy and equal protection clauses of the U.S. Constitution.

Hot Springs School Heads Picketed

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—A dozen protesters carrying pickets demonstrated in front of the Hot Springs school administration building for about eight hours Thursday. One said the group was attempting to bring about full school integration here.

"We want to remove identities of white and black schools," stated Paschal, president of the Council for the Liberation of Blacks. The 12 pickets were Paschal, a shop teacher at the predominantly Negro Langston Junior High School, said there had been talk that the school should be closed.

"We think it should be integrated," he said. "We are here to question the school board for the long delay in doing what is right."

He said integration started here 14 years ago but hadn't progressed rapidly enough. He said his group was willing to be part of the solution to problems but he questioned whether school officials were.

"Before, the school board has been part of the problem," he said.

Paschal said Hot Springs High School needed Negro teachers and that steps should be taken immediately to bus Negro students to the big schools.

Gerald Fisher, newly appointed school superintendent, said he was willing to discuss problems with CLOB leaders any time.

It was the second time in less than two months saboteurs have hit the oil installations. A pipeline complex was blasted in the port compound June 24.

Police said the electric tower and the pipeline were slightly damaged, ahhood was without electricity for about an hour.

Thursday, Egyptian and Israeli artillery battled across the Suez Canal north of Port Suez and three Israeli soldiers were wounded, the Israeli army announced.

Egyptian cannon opened fire, a spokesman said, and Israeli units returned the fire.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, supporters of Lebanon claimed they have the necessary nine votes to get a resolution through the Security Council condemning Israel's air raid Monday on the southern part of Lebanon.

They said the preliminary draft for such a resolution includes a provision holding Israel responsible for loss of life and property in the attack on the Mt. Hermon sector.

Other sources said the United States and Britain had prepared a rival preliminary draft regretting the loss of life from the air raid and calling upon both Israel and Lebanon for strict observance of the cease-fire.

Hundreds in Alaska Fight Forest Fire

SOLDOTNA, Alaska (AP) — Hundreds of firefighters battled with everything from shovels to water-dropping helicopters Thursday to hold the Swanson River forest fire behind newly-drawn fire lines, and evacuees began returning to their homes.

The wind which caused firefighters grief Wednesday shifted from northerly to southwesterly Thursday, forcing the fire back into scorched areas and relieving the pressure on the towns of Soldotna and nearby Kenai—both on the Kenai Peninsula. Wind velocity was down to 10 knots from 35 knots.

The wind shift caused some alarm to residents of Anchorage, some 70 miles north of the fire area, as smoke billowed into the city and caused an almost unheard of smog. Visibility in Anchorage was cut to four miles.

A Bureau of Land Management spokesman here said the situation is still serious, but "vastly improved over Wednesday night."

"The weather is still the dictator in this thing," the spokesman said.

More than 50,000 acres of the marshy, sparsely forested area has been singed, and the Kenai National Moose Range has been badly charred.

Curtis Cannon as the weekly
Hempstead County Review.

1927 — Cannon sold plant to confusion, indifference, no learning and stand-still. Hempstead County delegates pantomimed contrasting examples of orderly and disorderly meetings. This skit was requested by other counties in the State and will be featured on various county programs to encourage better meetings.

This workshop is being sponsored by the Hempstead County Agricultural Extension Service due to the fact that homemakers have indicated a need for this particular program.

Buy Your Way to a Top Job

Employment opportunities for purchasing agents are expected to be extremely good all through the 1970s.

Demand is expected to be especially strong for graduates of schools of business administration who have had courses in purchasing. Excellent demand also is expected for graduates whose background in engineering and science qualifies them for jobs in purchasing departments of firms that manufacture complex machinery, chemicals and other technical products.

Liberal arts college graduates should be able to obtain trainee positions in many types of firms and outstanding persons who do not have a college education will continue to be promoted from clerical, sales and other types of jobs, but their opportunities for advancement to high-level purchasing jobs will be limited.

Factors underlying the expected employment growth include a continuing increase in the size of business and manufacturing firms, the development of new products and sources of supply and the ever-increasing complexity and specialization of business functions.

Many employers prefer to hire graduates of schools of business administration or engineering who have had courses in accounting, economics and purchasing for beginning positions as purchasing agents. A few require graduate training in business administration. On the other hand, many firms give great weight to experience with the company and select purchasing workers from among their own personnel, whether or not they have had a college education. For advancement to high-level positions, however, a college degree is becoming increasingly important.

Regardless of previous training and experience, the beginner in the purchasing field must spend considerable time learning about his company's operations and purchasing procedures. Some companies provide classroom-type instruction and on-the-job training. The beginner may be assigned to the storekeeper's section to learn about operations such as keeping inventory records, filling out forms to initiate purchases of additional stock, or providing proper storage facilities. He may then work with an experienced buyer to learn about types of goods purchased, prices and sources of supply.

Following the initial training period, the trainee may become a junior buyer of standard catalogue items. After he gains experience in the various aspects of purchasing and demonstrates ability to exercise good judgment and accept responsibility, he may be promoted to assistant purchasing agent and then to full-fledged purchasing agent. In large companies, purchasing agents or heads of purchasing departments may become vice-presidents with over-all responsibility for purchasing, warehousing, traffic and related functions.

More than half of the estimated 150,000 purchasing agents and closely related types of buyers employed in recent years were in manufacturing industries. Large numbers were employed in government agencies—federal, state, and local—and in wholesale and retail trade.

Nixon Will Name Choice for Justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a controversy growing over the man widely mentioned as his choice, President Nixon is planning to disclose on Monday his nominee to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court. "To my knowledge, he has a candidate firmly in mind," Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said Thursday at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif. But the White House has refused comment on reports that Nixon wants U.S. Circuit Court Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., of Greenville, S.C., to take the seat that Justice Abe Fortas resigned in mid-May.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, at a news conference in New York Thursday, urged Nixon not to nominate Haynsworth.

Lindsay said the judge "lacks the philosophy and sensitivity required to carry on the traditions of Louis Brandeis, Felix Frankfurter, Benjamin Cardozo and Arthur Goldberg."

However, Lindsay said, three New York judges reported to be among those considered by the President "stand in this tradition." He listed them as Stanley H. Fuld and Charles D. Breitel, both of the state Court of Appeals, and Henry J. Friendly, a federal appeals judge.

The four past judges and the three New York judges Lindsay listed, along with Fortas, all are Jewish. But, when asked if he believed there should be a so-called Jewish seat, Lindsay replied: "No ethnic, religious or national group has any claim on a seat in the U.S. Supreme Court."

Meanwhile, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged Nixon not to nominate Haynsworth, an aide to the senator said. While the aide would not make public the letter, Javits reportedly wrote that it "could only be viewed as a staggering blow to the cause of civil rights" if Haynsworth is appointed.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is opposed to the choice of Haynsworth, said Clarence Mitchell, director of the group's Washington bureau, because "We feel that in his key decisions he has clearly taken a position in favor of segregation."

Pay Up Today for Industrial Foundation; Bachelor's Note

Along with other stockholders in the Hempstead County Industrial Foundation, Inc., The Star has received a request to honor its original stock-purchase pledge and buy another 10 per cent interest.

The Foundation started off with shareholders putting down 10 per cent cash against their total pledge. Later they paid an additional 10 per cent—so the present call will raise the total to 30 per cent of a firm's original pledge.

For example, The Star at the beginning pledged $1,500. We paid in $150 on two occasions making the present investment $300—to become $450 after honoring the new 10 per cent call.

In his letter to stockholders dated Aug. 12 Thomas E. Hays, Jr., chairman of the Share Sale Committee, lists seven local enterprises, mostly in manufacturing, which the Chamber of Commerce and the Foundation have jointly helped to bring to Hope. The total employment of these new firms is 520.

Editorially The Star advocated from the beginning that Hope put a larger cash investment into the Foundation. These are relatively easy times (for those of us who operated during the 1929-33 depression) and it is in good times that the wise citizen lays by a reserve for industrial and trade expansion. It is the commercial equivalent of the Social Security payments that the individual citizen makes during his productive years so he will have something to fall back upon in his old age.

What do first-time visitors in Arkansas want to see most? I should know—until this morning when they took off on their return trip to Georgia and Florida I've had as house guests my sister, Mrs. F.M. Gibson of Sarasota, Fla., and her daughter-in-law Mrs. M.W. Gibson and baby Patti of Fort Benning, Ga.

What did they want to see? Hot Springs, and our big lakes—in that order.

So we spent Monday night and Tuesday in Hot Springs, and Wednesday night and Thursday at the employees cottage on Narrows Lake, and cruising same. Their reports to Georgia and Florida will be enthusiastic—but your editor is exhausted.

Among the things an old bachelor never would know if it weren't for kinkfolk is how a baby sleeps. Tuesday morning the girls went shopping—and attending auctions—and your editor drew a two-hour job of baby-sitting in our rooms at Hotel Arlington.

Patti will be 2 in December—but I never knew until Tuesday that a baby sleeps with her head down, clutching her nursing bottle, with her stern elevated, as if poised to spring into action for a fire alarm. What bachelors don't know...

But I did make good on an educated guess. Monday night we hired a baby-sitter and I took the girls out to dinner and saw Vic Ames' Vapors Club show. Ames is a famous star, runs a good show—and has superlative food at a reasonable price (for a supper club).

Despite large and small scale wars of recent decades, the GIs of World War II are still the most numerous group of former servicemen, half the total of all living veterans, according to latest Veterans Administration figures. Earliest of the nation's major conflicts with veterans still on the active list is the Spanish-American War of 1898. With the addition of servicemen who served between wars, the veterans' total is more than 27 million, highest in the nation's history.

British Send More Troops Into Ireland

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops moved by air and land to Belfast today as 15,000 Roman Catholics barricaded themselves behind burning trucks and toppled lamp-posts and prepared for battle.

Six hundred British troops were due to arrive at Aldergrove airport near Belfast in early evening. Hundreds more moved to the city by land.

London said the troops were entering Belfast "as friends of all the people in that city in order to ensure that, if humanly possible, there will be no further loss of life."

Northern Ireland's six provinces, known as Ulster, are still part of Britain, though they have some autonomy in domestic affairs.

The troops came after a night of vicious fighting in which 5 persons were killed and 192 were wounded.

Prime Minister James Callaghan-Clark appealed to Roman Catholics and Protestants alike in a television broadcast.

"For heaven's sake stay off the streets tonight," he said. "Stay in your homes and do not do anything that will exacerbate the situation."

He blamed the outlawed Irish Republican Army for Thursday night's violence.

At the same time the Irish Republic announced it was calling up first-line reserves of its 13,000-man armed forces, and a spokesman in Dublin said the action was taken to have the troops "in readiness for a peace-keeping operation."

He did not explain further.

The Roman Catholic south already has several hundred troops along Northern Ireland's border.

Imaginative Americans Tell Some Tall Tales During Frontier Days

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are a very imaginative people.

During frontier days the pioneers used to take the edge of dullness off their lives by telling each other tall tales of the feat they had done and the wild critters they had conquered.

These yarn-spinning sessions were mostly flights of the imagination, in which each participant tried to outdo the preceding one. From these confabulations probably emerged the saying, "The biggest liar is the last one."

In the business world of today, white collar workers still indulge in wild flights of the imagination. But instead of lying about what they did, they lie about what they didn't do—and what they didn't do is get to work on time.

A friend of mine in the personnel department of a large firm for years has made a hobby of collecting excuses given by employees for tardiness or ab-

Gas Loaded Train Hits Legal Block

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
One of two trains carrying canisters of World War I killer gas across the country ran into a legal block along a scheduled shortcut through Canada today.

The gas is being transported from Colorado. One train was headed for industrial purchasers in Louisiana and the other to Lockport, N.Y.

But at Windsor, Ont., the district collector of customs, Hartley Purvis, issued an order prohibiting the Lockport-bound train of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad from passing through southern Ontario.

Some U.S. rail routes go along the north shore of Lake Erie as a shortcut on their runs.

The train carrying the gas was due to enter Canada at Windsor tonight, travel through St. Thomas and Welland and return to U.S. territory at Niagara Falls early Saturday.

Purvis said: "I notified the railway officials and our officers shortly after I received a call from Robert Elley, in charge of our rail, air, marine customs division."

Purvis said the shipment is banned under the Customs Tariff Act.

Memphis Murders Resemble LA Slayings

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A disabled Memphis accountant and his wife were found murdered at their fashionable Memphis apartment last Thursday evening.

Police officers on the scene said the killings resembled the weekend deaths at the home of Hollywood actress Sharon Tate.

Officers declined to speculate, however, on whether the slayings were connected with those in Hollywood.

Police said the victims were Roy Kenneth Dumas, 58, and his wife, Vernalyn Kelly Dumas, 46. Memphis police and Fire Director Frank Holloman said Mrs. Dumas appeared to have been raped.

Holloman said the bodies were discovered in separate bedrooms in the couple's three-bedroom, ground level apartment in the midtown section of the city.

Mills said there should be some guidelines to determine for what purpose the money would be used.

Army Won't Release Green Beret

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Army authorities today denied a petition for the release of one of eight Green Beret soldiers accused of murdering a Vietnamese who turned out to be a double agent.

An official spokesman said the release was refused because of "the seriousness of the alleged offense."

The petition was filed by a civilian attorney on behalf of Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 30, of Jefferson, S.C. His lawyer contended that pretrial detention is permissible only when the accused might try to flee or is a dangerous person at large, and the petition said this was not true of Middleton.

The name Chu Yen Thai Khac was one of several that have been banded about in speculation on the hush-hush case.

Sources said that although this is the "official" name of the victim, it may be an alias.

Other sources said earlier the man was shot and his weighted body dumped in the South China Sea off Nha Trang. The body has not been recovered.

The Army has filed charges of premeditated murder and conspiracy against seven U.S. Special Forces officers and one sergeant.

One of the officers, Col. Robert B. Rheault of Vineyard Haven, Mass., was commander of all Special Forces in Vietnam at the time of the killing.

Incomes Up in July, So Are Prices

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — July was not a good month for the nation's anti-inflation warriors.

Personal income hit a new peak but so did prices. The Commerce Department confirmed its fears about continuing inflation. And there is another apparently disturbing report on the U.S. balance of payments deficit.

The bad news emerged Thursday in an avalanche of economic indicators, and Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy underscored it by grimly warning of an "intolerable inflation" that could cut the value of the dollar in half in less than a dozen years.

"We've been a bit late in recognizing just how strong these forces are that control" rising personal income, one economist admitted after Commerce reported a $6 billion increase during July.

Income rose to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $752.3 billion. The biggest single factor in the outsize increase was a $2.5 billion federal pay raise that won't happen again. Economists think the monthly increase will be around $5 billion for the rest of the year.

Kennedy, speaking at the dedication of a new Mint in Philadelphia, cited the 6½ per cent increase in the consumer price index for the first half of this year.

In the upside-down world of the economic cancer called inflation, news that once was good now is bad and what once was bad now is good or at least acceptable.

Increasing personal income is one example. In normal times it means John Q. Citizen can swing the new car or his wife can buy better cuts of meat. In times of inflation, however, their spending drives up prices, which in turn cuts their buying power.

The Commerce Department gave another example of how that works when it published its revised figures on the gross national product for the second period. It was up $16 billion, or 1¼ per cent—which is another way of saying that much more money changed hands.

But 1¼ per cent of that was in price increases while only a half of a per cent was in expanded production. In Thursday's revision, consumer spending was higher than originally estimated by $2 billion while at the same time businessmen were cutting their inventories by $2.5 billion more than originally figured.

Money Crunch Forces Pentagon to Review Its Missile Plans

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A money crunch has forced the Pentagon to review its plan for trying to improve the guidance system for the multiple warhead Poseidon missile.

The submarine-launched missile, which reportedly has 10 warheads, has been flight tested nine times and is scheduled for deployment sometime after mid-1970.

Secretary of Defense Melvin

R. Laird, when he urged Congress last April to jack up funds for the improved guidance system, said:

"This is an important program since it promises to improve significantly the accuracy of the Poseidon missile, thus enhancing its effectiveness against hard targets."

But Dr. John S. Foster Jr., the department's chief scientist, told a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee behind closed doors on Aug. 5 the question of whether to put the improved system in Poseidon is being reviewed "in view of the serious fiscal situation."

Foster's testimony, with security deletions by the Pentagon, was released Thursday by the panel which has been holding hearings on the advisability of a mutual moratorium with Russia on flight testing of MIRV's—multiple individually-targeted re-entry vehicles.

The comments on Poseidon came during an exchange with Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., who suggested Laird's testimony would raise questions in the minds of Soviet military planners.

It would seem to me that they (Soviet planners) would have to assume that we would be putting ourselves ultimately in the position of knocking out large numbers of hard targets," Fraser said.

Foster suggested that since both nations now have about the same number of missiles it isn't possible for either to destroy the other in a first strike.

"... don't believe the MIRV of the Poseidon adds to U.S. capability to attack Soviet ICBMs," Foster said. "I don't believe that the Soviets will seriously consider that as an additional capability."

Laird had asked the House Armed Services Committee to add another $12.4 million to the $33.5 million proposed for Poseidon in this fiscal year to develop the improved guidance system.

Storm Has Become a Hurricane

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Camille, her winds up to a howling 100 miles an hour and growing stronger, thrashed slowly toward Cuba today and posed a threat to Florida and the highly-exposed chain of Florida Keys.

Cuba, where the harvest of the two big money crops, tobacco and sugar, is in full swing will get the full brunt of the most dangerous Atlantic storm of 1969, said Dr. Robert H. Simpson, chief of the National Hurricane Center.

"It's too early to tell what part of Florida or how many of the Keys will be affected," Simpson said, "but some of the Keys will have to be batten down."

At mid-morning, Camille's forward motion had slowed considerably and the storm's center was near Latitude 20.9 North, Longitude 83.9 West. But Camille's fury had intensified greatly.

She was still south of the tale of Pines, once an infamous political prison now converted to a school where 8,000 to 10,000 Cuban youths are indoctrinated in communism and study agriculture.

"This is still a young, immature storm," Simpson said. "In this state of development, it could go on to become one of the great storms, or it could rise and fall in intensity as Gladys did last year."
